

A scenic photograph of two people cycling away from the camera on a wide, light-colored gravel path. The person on the left is wearing a light-colored jacket and dark pants, while the person on the right is wearing a blue jacket and pink pants. The path is flanked by lush green grass and wildflowers. To the right, a wooden fence separates the path from a green field. In the background, there are large, leafy trees and a distant line of forest under a bright blue sky with scattered white clouds.
